

Anton Ames

Data and Information Systems Management Consultant
Anton Ames Group
Omaha, Nebraska

Anton Ames is a data and information systems management consultant with over 25 years of experience, including CIO, VP and director positions. The driving force behind his career has been a passion for implementing solutions that improve efficiency and provide business value. Ames's services range from technology assessments and strategic planning to managing RFP and system selection/implementation projects. He is also a faculty member at Creighton University, where he teaches systems analysis and design, business intelligence and analytics, and data governance to both graduate and undergraduate students. Ames holds a bachelor of science degree in managing information systems from Park University and an M.B.A. degree from the University of Missouri–Kansas City.