

Jason N. Sheffield, J.D.

National Director of Compliance
Baldwin Risk Partners
Decatur, Georgia

Jason Sheffield is Baldwin Risk Partners' national director of compliance for the regulatory compliance collaborative. He oversees national compliance operations among all regions throughout the United States. He develops, designs and implements educational programming and compliance assuredness services by creating timely and relevant solutions designed for clients, industry partners and the general benefits community. Sheffield has practiced employee benefits law and consulting for nearly two decades, representing individual, corporate and tribal interests at the local, state and federal levels. He has advised clients and provided representative services before administrative agencies such as the DOL, the IRS, CMS, OCR, several state-level treasury authorities and others. Sheffield has experience with both qualified and nonqualified retirement plans as well as with executive compensation matters, and he has extensive experience respecting health and welfare plan matters. He routinely provides consultation respecting the entire lifecycle of organizational employee benefit matters, including development, implementation, administration, correction and termination of benefit plans, programs and other total rewards features. Sheffield is a frequent author and educator within the employee benefits community. He has presented at numerous regional and national conferences, symposiums, seminars and workshops, and he has authored many benefits industry-related articles, journals and other publications. He is also admitted to the State Bar of Georgia. Sheffield received his undergraduate degree from Georgia State University (magna cum laude) and his juris doctor degree from Western New England College School of Law.
